

U.S. Military and Military-Intelligence End-Use and End-User Controls Overview

Overview

This short awareness-level training course introduces learners to the concepts and definitions behind U.S. controls on military and military-intelligence end use and end users under the Export Administration Regulations (EAR).

Target Audience

Learners needing an introduction to U.S. military and military-intelligence end-use and end-user controls

Learning Objectives

Enable learners to:

- Understand how the U.S. controls certain items that are used for a military or military-intelligence end use or by military or military-intelligence end users.
- Remember some of the definitions associated with making a possible export for one of these end uses or to one of these end users.
- Access resources for more information.

Length: 12 minutes (approximate)

U.S. Military and Military-Intelligence End-Use and End-User Controls Overview

COURSE MAP

An Overview of U.S. Military and Military-Intelligence End-User and End-User Restrictions

- The Licensing Requirement
- Military End-Use and End-User Restrictions
- Military-Intelligence End-Use and End-User Restrictions
- License Exceptions and More Information

Other Considerations

- Other Controls

Conclusion